

The logo for 'shortstories' features the word 'short' in orange and 'stories' in white, both on a black rectangular background.

Lucknow scientist gets global recognition

LUCKNOW: Prof Bharat Raj Singh, director, School of Management Sciences, technical campus, Lucknow has been associated as reviewer with the Elsevier for the last 5 years. He had completed the reviewing of many research papers and found instrumental in contributing and enhancing the standard of science and technology in the last two years (2012-2014) in the field of energy. The number of research papers which were suggested by him for improvements, graded and placed him at the 10th place in terms of percentile all over the world. The Elsevier has awarded him 10th rank for the number of reviews and quality improvements and placed him as "Outstanding Reviewer Status". Singh has already attained a name in the field of environmental science. His invention of "Air-O-Bike" and his chapter in the US text book "Can glacier and icemelt be reversed?" have already been included in American Schools for the grade 9th-12th standards. He has attained national and international repute. These works were featured in Limca Book of Records-2014 and 2015 respectively.